History: Town was founded by George Coulter, who rented building to the left of General Store from Bill McCarty and reopened his hotel here after fire destroyed his first hotel in late 50's. Wells Fargo had an office in Wagoner's General Store. Directly in front of store stands gnarled old "Hang Tree"

Description: Coulter's Hotel, now in ruins, constructed of stone with top story of wood with false front. Stone at street front was roughly squared. Wagoner's store of brick with board and batton gable end. Wood frame awning supported by wood posts extends in front of both buildings.
